The Unit for Academic Literacy at the University of Pretoria is excited to offer a new postgraduate qualification Coursework MA (Applied Linguistics) from 2025 onwards

This is a one-year degree for qualifying postgraduate students who want to contribute to a multilingual, democratic society by immersing themselves in the design of applied linguistic interventions, such as language courses, multilingual pedagogies, tests, policies, and the like.

The degree includes coursework and the writing of a mini-dissertation.

Graduates armed with such a qualification may secure employment with schools, universities, language boards, non-governmental institutions, educational bodies and language units serving both business enterprises and state entities.

Modules on offer include:

Theory of Applied Linguistics
Language Curriculum and Course Design
Language Testing and Assessment
Language Policy and Planning
Second Language Acquisition
Writing Centre Theory and Practice
Writing Fiction and Fact

Who can apply?

Students who have a relevant honours degree with specialisation in a language, linguistics or a language-related discipline; AND a cumulative weighted average of at least 65% for the honours degree can apply for admission to the degree.
